THURSDAY, DECEMBER S.

The attitude of the Republican party of New Mexico has always been consistent on the question of the admission of the territory as a state. We favored the admission of the territory when the Democratic party was united in their opposition against it. We still favor good and substantial reason for keeping us out of the Union as a state and believe that this can best be accomplished by the election of a delegate to congress who is in harmony with Republican politics and principles.—Republican Platform, New Mexico, 1898.

The Los Angeles Times was 17 years old last Sunday, and is patting itself on the back for the success it has made in the newspaper world. The Times is among the best papers in the country, and has every reason to feel proud of its growth, prosperity and accomplish-

A promise has been partially made that the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain will be signed on Saturday. It has taken considerable time to arrive so near the end, and it is to be hoped that the present week will close up the bargain and restore diplomatic relations between the two

The United States, according to some prognosticators, is doomed to imme diate ruin, but there is a wide differ ence of opinion regarding the cause of the impending catastrophe. Senator Teller says that the demonetization of silver will bring about that result, while Eliot, Hoar and Carnegie state emphatically that the annexation of the Philippines will swamp the government. In the meantime the country seems to be in a very healthy state both financially and industrially.

Sugar beets grown in Santa Fe county the past season averaged over 20 per cent of sugar content and 83 per cent in purity. There are thousands of acres of land in the county adapted to growing beets and several large sized sugar factories can be supplied with a sufficient tonnage to run for several months, or, in fact, as long as the "campaign" lasts anywhere. This source of wealth to the county is allowed to lie for want of enterprise on the part of the business men and property owners. When will those who are the most deeply interested in the growth and prosperity of Santa Fe get together and secure a factory in Eastern papers are advocating the restoration of the whipping post and cat-o'nine talls as a means of punishment for wife-beating, seduction and similar offenses against the laws, and the humane societies are taking the matter up with the intention of securing laws in different states to legalize public whippings for the crimes mentioned. The use of the public whipping post appears brutal at this time of the world, but it is no more brutal than the men who indulge in the pastime of bruising their better halves, and its introduction might have a very salutary effect upon that class of people. No great harm will result to the country by giving that method of punishment a be expected in the Philippine islands within a few days. The president has instructed General Otls to demand the immediate release of all Spanish prisoners held by Aguinaldo, and if the demand is refused the prisoners will be released by the American forces. The effect of this action will be to compel the insurgent leader to make known his intentions and plans regarding American occupation, and then this government will act accordingly. Following the formal assumption of authority over the islands by the United States will be the disarming of the insurgent forces, and if any trouble is to be had with the Filipinos, it will come when they are told to give up their arms and disperse. The troops at Manila may have some warm times yet, before the Philippines are taken into the complete control of this country.

The one thing needed in New Mexico to make of the territory almost an such as tropical fruits, and in introducearthly paradise is capital. that direction until they succeed. A resident of Canada has hit upon : good plan for Great Britain to secure everything she wants in the Philippines and that is to trade her North American possessions to the United States for the islands and thus take full control of them. Such an arrangement would, of course, contract the expanse of coun try, east and west, over which the stars and stripes would wave, but it would concentrate interests and save traveling xpenses, to say nothing of other maters which are likely to prove disagreeable before they are finally settled; and then, the mutual benefit to be derived would be greatly increased. If the Canadians will call the attention of the British government to the subject and get its consent to the exchange, the trade could be made without a hitch.

Relic of Barbarism Abolished.

After many years of agitation and vain attempts at its abolition, a move that promises to amount to something has been taken looking towards doing away forever with hazing in American olleges. The honor belongs to Princeton, whence so much good in raising the morale of college life has come in the its admission, believing that there is no past; and it is not too much to say that the hearty thanks of every educator in the land are due to "Old Nassau" for the noble action of her students in resolving to abolish hazing from Princeton

For decades, yes, for centuries, it has been regarded as eminently fitting and proper that first year students in the higher institutions of learning both in Great Britain and the United States should be subjected to annoyance, indignity and abuse, as the most approved way of initiating them into collegiate life. This barbarous custom no doubt was a reflection among the older students of the mean and despicable treatment so often given smaller boys by larger ones at school. The great preparatory schools in England and in the more noted universities practiced hazing upon the younger and inexperienced oupils and students, it would seem from time immemorial, and often with an intensity never to be forgotten by the sufferers and only to be re-practiced by them upon the generation of students immediately succeeding. In the United States, hazing has been at times carried to a shameful extent, and frequently have the papers had occasion to chronicle painful accidents, mainings for life, and sometimes fatalities, as the outcome of this wretched "time honored custom."

Freshmen have been visited in the

A Cornell student trousers were ruined in consequence. Sophomores have visited freshman quarters, turned the entire place upside down, and destroyed considerable property in so doing: freshmen have had their windows smashed, have been personally assaulted both on the streets and in their rooms, have been deliberately robbed of their belongings, compelled to "set up the drinks" to their endure many other such annoyances. At the United States military and naval academies hazing has been pushed to expulsion of whole classes was threatened in punishment. A very promising nephew of the late Lieutenant Swat. must count for the advantage of all. ka, the explorer, was so maltreated at "a little horse play." At West Point the most outrageous conduct has been more or less winked at by the authorities, as this breaking in was considered promotive of development of the more hardy side of the cadet's nature. The experience of the colored cadets in particular has been a blot on the good name of the institution, and the case of Cadet Whittaker will never be forgotten. It has taken a long, long time to realize that there is nothing manly or brave in presumption upon the youth, inexperience or weakness of others. It is not

Of late years a healthy public sentiment has exerted such an influence that the evil has been largely diminished. and now comes this most praiseworthy and noble action of Princeton students. Let Yale, Harvard, Amherst, Dartmouth, Columbia and other great collegiate institutions follow quickly in the | tended Christmas entertainment for the footsteps of "Old Nassau," and set their seal of condemnation on and bury forever one of the worst and most reprehensible customs ever attached to college or school life.

The annual report of the secretary of igriculture, which has just been issued ontains much of interest to the country generally. The report calls attention to the efforts of the department to extend foreign markets for American farm products. Experimental shipments of butter and cheese have been made to Europe, and special representatives have been sent to Japan and China to establish agencies to which trial shipments of food products may be made and which an gather such information in that region of the world as may be of benefit to exporters of farm products. There is a possibility of developing in China and Japan a large demand for wheat and corn and for other food products of the United States, and the time may come in the near future when millions of barrels of corn meal and wheat flour will be shipped to the Orient instead of the few thousand barrels which now go there, The department has engaged, not only in facilitating the production of larger and better crops in this country, and in protecting them from destructive pests, but also in finding a market for the constantly growing output of the farms.

The report shows that the department has been conducted in an able manner and for the benefit of the farmers of the country. The efforts which have been made to better the conditions governing agriculture, to expand the markets for American products, and improve and increase the variety of crops have been marked with a gratifying degree of suc-The money which has been expended by Secretary Wilson has been put to good use and the country at large has profited thereby.

PRESS COMMENTS.

WORK OF THE LEGISLATURE. (Roswell Record.)

Now that the laws of the territory have been newly compiled and different laws on kindred topics placed under the same eadings, the inconsistencies and imperfections are more readily seen. There will be plenty of work for the incoming legislature, in trimming up the laws we have, paring down here and adding to them, to say nothing of creating entire new chapters. The political complexion of the body is such that no matters of partisanship can with any justification mar the usefulness of the session, and the entire 60 days of the session should be devoted to the betterment of the laws. There are members of the body who understand fully what should be done in the premises for the legal advancement of the territory, and if they will be actuated by a desire to work singly and unselfishly to that end, much can be expected for good. If, however, the members of the legislature devote night by more or less drunken sopho- the time to devising and working through schemes for their personal adjected to indignities and brutal treat- vantage, regardless of the best interests of the territory as a whole.
